Don't know what happened before upgrading, then Exchange 2010 clean re-install is the way to go. That is the only way you can get rid of the signed in profile in Exchange 2010/exchange 2013 products. You must re-install Exchange 2010 using Windows Installer. If you don't re-install, then Exchange 2010 will always prompt you for a key when you log in. And the re-install process is a complete re-install. Even with the clean re-install, your profile will always be visible on the server. Do you know what Exchange backup utility is? Microsoft offers two Exchange backup utilities. Microsoft Exchange Archive Utility (MxAUtil). Microsoft Exchange Online Management Shell (MxOmsh). Granular restores can be accomplished using the MxOmsh. MxAUtil is used for archive and deduplication. For deduplication, MxAUtil can scan all folders in the database and compare the content of all folders. For archive, MxAUtil can scan folders and detach them from Exchange to an archive file. MxOmsh is typically used for re-imaging or a backup restore. Microsoft Backup & Replication For Exchange 2010 & Office 365A .
