This seems like a common use case and I'm searching for some code that I can adapt to my requirements. A: I was able to find a plugin here that will let me run a task every 30 minutes or 60 minutes. If you are using Redis you can also use another plugin to check for the state of the task: and then if the task is marked as failed, you know it's time to run it. Also note you may need to have your tasks all run in the same process. We have identified a potent anti-metastatic activity of hypericin, a photo-active hypericin, that is in clinical trials for the treatment of human head and neck and metastatic breast cancers. We have found that light-activated hypericin inhibits metastasis in different ways. Exposure of cancer cells to light-activated hypericin at an early time before cells leave the primary tumor can prevent cell arrest in the lungs d0c515b9f4
