Q: setInterval doesn't stop executing or dies Here's a more concise example that has the same issue:

var i = 0; function start() { i++; setInterval(function(){ document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ", 0)";
document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ", 0)"; i++; }, 3000); setInterval(function(){ document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i
+ ", 0)"; document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ", 0)"; i++;
}, 3000); setInterval(function(){ document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i
+ ", " + i + ", 0)"; document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ",
0)"; i++; }, 3000); } start(); This will result in the div element's background color not changing.
However, if I change start() to be: function start() { i = 0; setInterval(function(){ document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ", 0)";
document.getElementById("div").style.backgroundColor = "rgb(" + i + ", " + i + ", 0)"; i++; }, 3000);
} start(); and add in my end part: function
