The amendments allow the United States Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to enter the United States without a warrant if there is probable cause that a target is an agent of a foreign power or engaged in espionage. Amendments Section 3, "General Definitions", Section 3, Subsections (e) and (f) in Paragraph (5) was amended to read as follows: (5) the term "person" means any natural person, corporation, or partnership and includes any officer, employee, or agent of any person; (f) the term "foreign power" means any foreign government or any component thereof, the National Security Council, a foreign-based political party, and any officer or employee of a foreign-based political party or any person at the request of such a foreign government or such party, while acting within the scope of his or her employment or under color of law; See also Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act United States v. Mice homozygous for a dominant mutation that results in progressive ataxia and spasticity were used to study the cellular organization and dynamics of ataxic symptoms in a normal nervous system. Mice of the jimpy strain were back-crossed to strain C57BL/6 and the abnormal neurological symptoms of jimpy mice were shown to be the result of a defect in the dorsal root ganglion rather than the central nervous system c6a93da74d
